CASE STUDIES

Here's a collection of some of our most recent projects to inspire you.

“Hampton have done an incredible job extending and converting our ground-floor space to construct a fantastic family living area.

The team have been reliable, hard working and delivered a high-quality finish.

Rich's attention to the project and constant communication made us feel in safe hands throughout.

We would highly recommend Hampton.”

John Reilly
Dorridge, Solihull

Victorian masterpiece

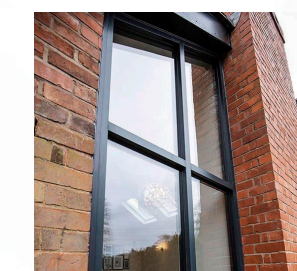

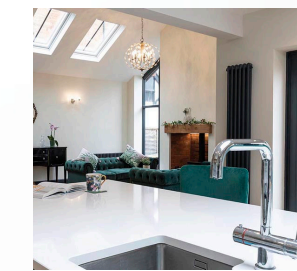

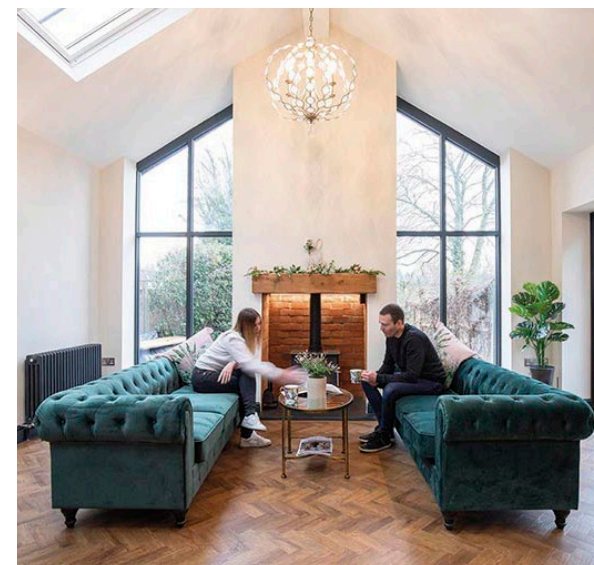

A stunning open-plan kitchen and living space.

The requirement: The Reilly family wanted to create a kitchen, utility, dining and living space for their growing family. Being located in a conservation area called for a design that preserved the integrity of their Victorian property. They required an extension which would bring natural light into their home, and would flow into their outdoor space.

Our solution: The new design entailed converting the existing garage and extending the rear of the house to create additional living space. After stripping out and removing the rear walls, we built a new chimney stack to house a wood burner. The ceiling within the converted garage area was raised, vaulted, and fitted with electric opening roof windows. The reclaimed brick extension which seamlessly linked the converted space to the house was fitted with aluminium french doors and fixed full height feature windows. We installed a rolled lead roof with welded outlets, a rubber roofing system, and a reclaimed slate roof across the different sections of the property. A drainage system was formed for the utility, along with further plumbing and electrical works for the new space.

A bespoke Hampton Shaker-style kitchen was designed to complement the period of the property. Lighting, flooring, and interior decoration added the finishing touches to the transformation.

The result: We have built a seamless, open-plan space that has provided the Reilly family with the large social and entertainment area they desired. Central to the rear elevation is full-height glazing, which allows light to flood the new area, and provide a connection to the garden. The feature chimney breast and log burner ensure the space can be snug all year-round. The Victorian house now has an elegant and practical addition which makes the home fit for 21st Century family living.

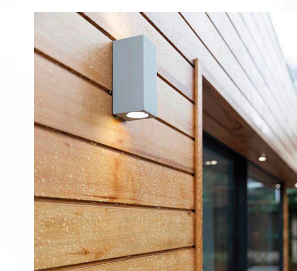

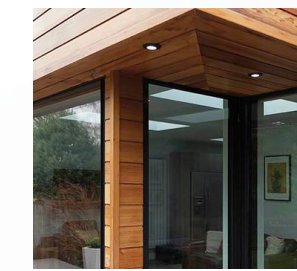

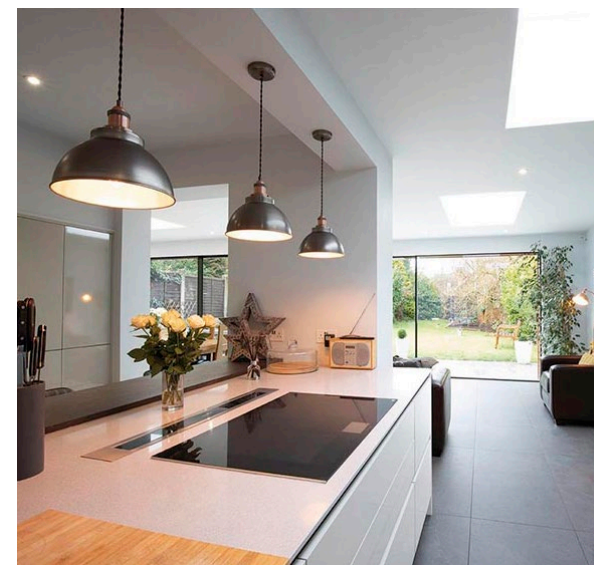

“Hampton worked closely with our architect, especially when it came to the exterior to create the all important final look, which we are really pleased with.

Even when inevitably our property threw up a few surprises, a solution was always found with no fuss.”

Rachel Robins
Sutton Coldfield

The perfect blend

Modern kitchen, dining and family room extension with spacious patio.

The requirement: The family of this detached house required a single-storey extension to give them a modern, light-filled large living, kitchen and dining space. Being sensitive to the existing exterior whilst creating a finish that contrasted with the house through materials and design was key. They were also looking to blend the aesthetic of their indoor and outdoor spaces.

Our solution: A new single-storey extension was designed and planned to create an open-plan kitchen, dining and living area. We demolished the old conservatory, moved existing drains and laid new foundations. New steels formed the shell for the blockwork, followed by a fibreglass flat roof with space for four roof windows. Oak bi-fold doors were fitted internally to link the existing lounge with the new space. Horizontal cedar cladding was used to provide a contemporary contrast to the existing rendered building. The selection of porcelain tiles ensured an exceptionally hard wearing, anti-slip surface. Large electric slim-frame aluminium sliding doors provided a seamless link between the renovated indoors and the outside entertainment space.

The result: The contemporary timber clad extension transformed the rear of this home into a dynamic living space. The family now have a light filled open-plan kitchen, dining, family area, and also have gained a larger utility room. Beautiful porcelain tiles bridge the gap between the indoor and the outdoor space, giving the appearance of one big room. Cedar wood within the build evokes nature inside the new room, creating the impression the garden continues seamlessly from the interior.

“Hampton managed to deliver our extension on budget.

They genuinely cared and ensured that the house was secure during the work, so that we were able to live there comfortably throughout the build.

We are absolutely thrilled with the end result.”

Chic retreat

A stylish first floor extension with internal remodelling and new bathrooms.

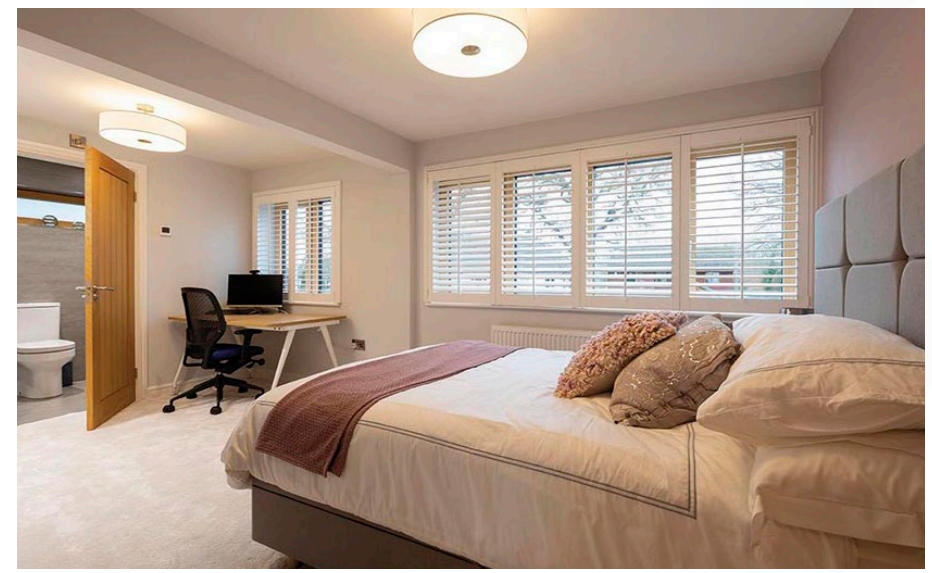

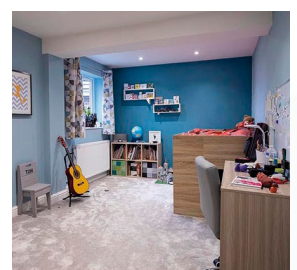

The requirement: The Davies family wanted to remodel and extend their property to create extra space for their growing family and visiting guests. The existing upstairs provided enough room for two single and two double bedrooms, but they wanted a more spacious design. A reconfiguration of the additional area was required to increase the bedrooms, add an extra en suite and create a large family bathroom.

Our solution: Extending upwards above the garage and the kitchen was the logical way to create a home with a larger first floor. The new space allowed for four double bedrooms including two master bedrooms with en suite bathrooms, and a large family bathroom.

Our team removed the kitchen roof and a section of the garage roof, before building up. Steel beams and a column were fitted to support the new storey. The entire side of the upstairs was removed and new steels were installed to support the existing roof structure. Stud walls were erected to separate the new rooms. A large, modern family bathroom was created, complete with underfloor heating.

Externally, we completed the extension with a seamless rendering to match the existing house.

The result: Using the original footprint of the house, we have increased the size of the property and provided a home that responds to the lifestyle and needs of the family. The additional space gained has created four large double bedrooms, two with en suites, which provide private spaces for all. The larger family bathroom is high tech and includes LED lights and a TV. The new layout of the upstairs has created a more spacious way of living for our clients.

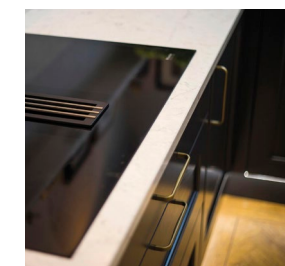

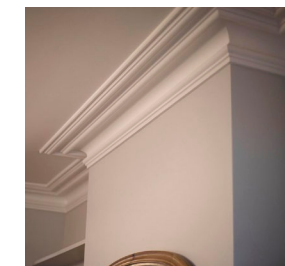

“I’m delighted with the quality finish and fitting of my new kitchen.

The Farrow & Ball paint colour on my doors looks fantastic and matches the other elements of my design.”

Period revival

Beautiful ground floor extension remodel and kitchen.

The requirement: The original ground floor layout of this Victorian terraced home comprised of three dark rooms which were not large enough for one centralised, sociable space. Our client wanted a single large open-plan area that enabled the ground floor to flow between the front of the house, and the rear garden with more natural light. The creation of a bespoke kitchen and cloakroom was also a required.

Our solution: Architectural plans proposed using the area between the house and the shared passageway to form a side return extension. The plans required removal of the internal walls for the creation of an open-plan space and separate cloakroom, which would conserve garden area and bring in more natural light.

Initially, the internal walls were removed, and large steelwork was fitted to support the side and rear of the house. A wet underfloor heating system was installed across the entire ground floor. Three fixed roof windows were used above the side extension and large crittall bi-fold doors were installed between the ground floor and the garden. The addition of a curved stud wall created the cloakroom. We designed and installed a Shaker-style kitchen with Belfast sink, pantry, and open shelving to complement the home’s architectural style.

Herringbone flooring, bespoke coving, and a period colour scheme completed the interior design.

The result: The beautiful period home preserved its original spirit whilst making it fit for modern life. The side extension adds 16 square metres to the home and allows for an open-plan kitchen, living and dining area. This created an endless view from the front of the property right into the rear garden, which the homeowners can enjoy. The new bi-fold doors and roof windows bring extra daylight into the space.

“We were pleasantly surprised by the excellent value for money and the can-do attitude of everyone involved.

Rich and his team were brilliant – professional, friendly, clean and tidy.

We now have one of those “wow” kitchens, we are so pleased!”

Nicola Holcombe

Living the dream

Stylish ground floor remodelling with modern kitchen.

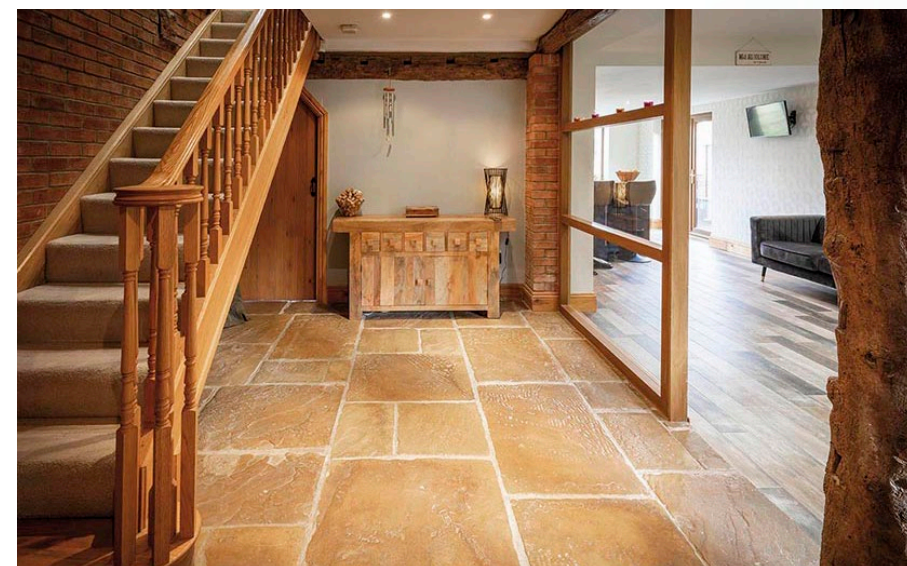

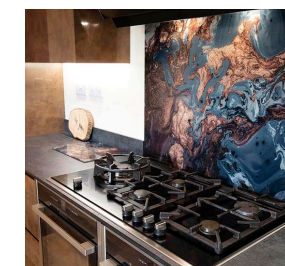

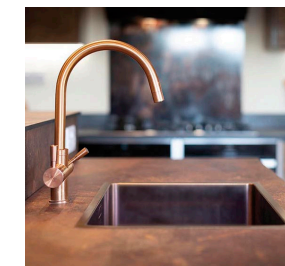

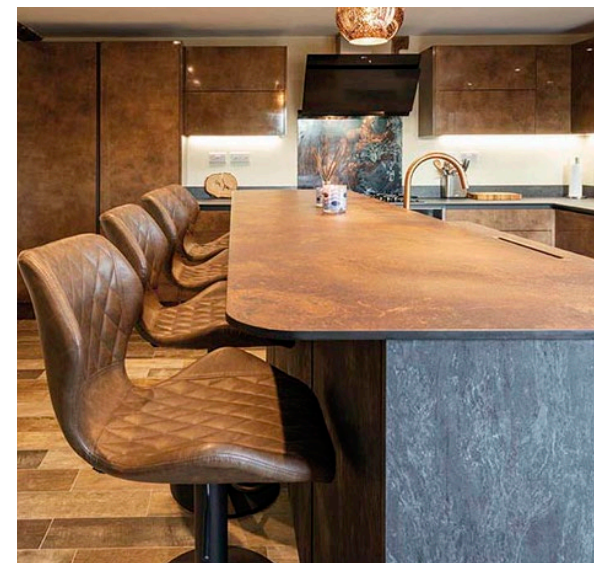

The requirement: The ground floor layout of the Holcombe family home was not conducive to their sociable family life and they wanted to bring more natural light into their property. They wanted to create a large open-plan space to include a kitchen, dining and family room but they did not want to compromise their outside space by extending.

Our solution: Our architect proposed to knock through the walls between the kitchen, utility, cloakroom and dining room to create a space for socialising and entertaining. The large garage would house the new cloakroom and utility.

Our construction team completed a strip out and installed brick pillar supports to form the foundation for the new steel beams. Walls were cut out and lintels fixed into place ready for the insertion of new floor-to-ceiling windows. A new drainage system was fitted within the kitchen island, and a wet underfloor heating system was installed. The garage space was reconfigured to create a new utility room and cloakroom which enabled access from the hallway.

A bespoke Hampton kitchen was designed, built and fitted into the new larger space.

The result: The dark kitchen and dining room have been converted into a light filled, dual aspect living space which completely transforms the layout of the house. The open-plan design gives the home a wonderful kitchen and family area for cooking, entertaining and relaxing. The increased utility space and cloakroom provide a fantastic ‘working’ environment that functions perfectly within the new layout. The underfloor heating gives the home a radiant warmth.

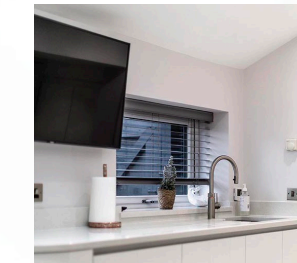

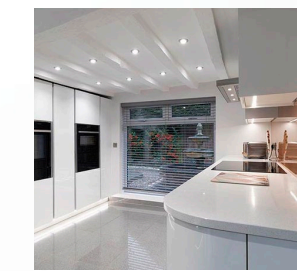

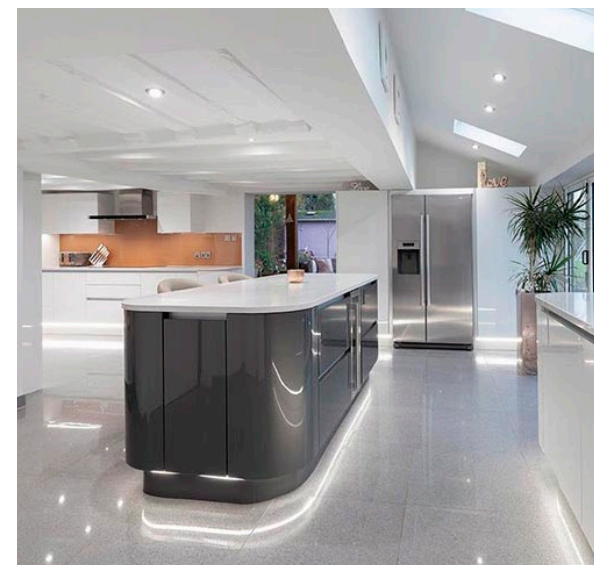

“The result is a wonderful space and a fabulous kitchen that suits our family and compliments our home—we thank Hampton for helping us achieve that.

Inevitably, with an old property, issues and challenges arose but these were dealt with promptly and professionally”.

Farm reborn

Beautiful single-storey extension with a modern kitchen and utility.

The requirement: Our clients wanted to extend their detached farmhouse to open up the dark ground floor living space, and create a large open-plan kitchen, dining and family area whilst preserving the character of the building.

Our solution: A carefully considered single-storey extension which was sensitive to the heritage of the existing building and surrounding area was designed and approved.

We removed the entire back wall of the house, underpinned the area, and laid new foundations for the extension. Reclaimed bricks were sourced for the new brickwork, which blended seamlessly into the existing building. Large bi-fold doors and roof windows were built into the extension, which created more natural light within the kitchen and allowed for an unrestricted view of the garden. A wet underfloor heating system was installed, and a complete electrical and lighting design service was provided by our electrical team.

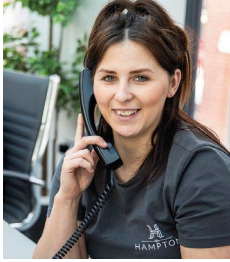

Our kitchen designers worked closely with our client to deliver a stunning high-gloss kitchen that fitted perfectly into the new, larger space.

The result: We built a beautiful kitchen extension which blended into the original architecture and incorporated a large open-plan space which flows into the garden. The high-gloss kitchen, bright fittings, and plenty of glazing have created a sense of light and space in this family home.

BUILDING FUTURES

As well as building your dream home, we also build the futures of our team.

Every year we enrol new apprentices to our trades, factory workshop and office. Accountancy, Project Management and Bricklaying are just a few of our current apprenticeship schemes.

Our apprentices attend technical or higher education college alongside working with us, gaining both education and employment experience. Apprentices are paired with experienced and professionally qualified mentors in the company, and will develop their practise over several years.

We are passionate about passing down traditional skills, knowledge and best practice, and we are proud of the development of our team members.

THE COMPLETE CONSTRUCTION & BUILDING SERVICE

OUR GREEN CREDENTIALS

Making homes more energy-efficient and decarbonizing domestic energy sources are key steps in the UK's pathway to net zero. We can offer input on environmentally friendly design and construction to improve buildability, and are always happy to discuss ideas and offer advice based on our experience.

At Hampton Group, we respect the environment, and have a responsibility to protect it and minimise the impact our business has on it. We have adopted the three R's principle over all our operations: to Reduce, Reuse and Recycle.

On our construction sites, all our waste materials are sorted for recycling, or, if there is no space for a recycling skip on site, the waste will be sorted for recycling by our preferred waste disposal company. We also have a policy to source materials from local suppliers when possible, which reduces the energy used in transporting materials.

In our Head Office, we encourage paperless working and double-sided printing if necessary. We encourage car sharing and provide car manuals on how to achieve the best fuel efficiency for company vehicles.
